Commission Initiates Making a Difference @ your library™

The Nebraska Library Commission recently launched a new venture, Making a Difference @ your library.™ Library Commission staff members serving on two-member teams are visiting all 275 public libraries in Nebraska.

The visits started on April 16, 2001 (Bess Johnson Elkhorn Public Library in Elkhorn), and will continue through the spring of 2002. These visits include discussions with library staff members on how Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) grants or other grants made during the past three years are "Making a Difference @ your library.™"

Participants also discuss the impact of state aid payments, as well as local library service successes and challenges. In addition, the Library Commission teams hold dialogue sessions with the library staff, trustees, customers, and other interested community members to gain a better understanding of local issues, concerns, and goals, and to learn how state and regional services impact local library services.

As of June 30, thirty-three visits (twelve percent) are completed, with another sixty-eight (twenty-five percent) scheduled through October. Staff reactions to these visits are very positive. Local library staff members have extended warm hospitality to visiting Commission staff members. The feedback about programs and services will prove invaluable for Commission planning purposes.

For more information, see the Library Commission Web site, <www.nlc.state.ne.us>, search on Making a Difference. As the project continues, the Web site will be expanded to include photographs taken during visits and access to some of the information gathered. ## Centennial Snapshot: Clara Belle Johnson

Building the Peace was the theme for the start of Clara Belle Johnson's tenure (1944-1950) as Executive Secretary of the Nebraska Public Library Commission. She emphasized good books and service by trained librarians. The shortage of librarians in many towns resulted in the need for training. The University of Nebraska, Peru State Teachers College, and Hastings College offered summer courses.

Johnson designed and promoted a system to divide the state into regions that could address the

From the Director... Libraries Promote Technologies Across Nebraska

Scott Sidwell, Executive Director of the Nebraska Association of County Officials, is quoted as saying, "The simple fact is that unless a conscious and deliberate effort is undertaken to put telecommunications technologies in courthouses, businesses, schools, and homes in rural Nebraska, residents will lose out on opportunities for education, employment, business development, government services, and health care." Let's add libraries and library services to that list, too. Sidwell's quote is included in a new brochure distributed by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Service. The brochure publicizes the Technologies Across Nebraska initiative that is attempting to bring together and pool the knowledge and resources of organizations and individuals sharing an interest in acquiring and employing the use of technology for a broad spectrum of purposes.

Technologies Across Nebraska offers the potential for connecting many information technology interests, even though it's difficult to determine who doesn't have an interest in this subject. The goal of this initiative is, "To provide a sustained source of information, training, and educational opportunities to enable Nebraska communities, citizens, and businesses to make informed decisions regarding information technology." Much can be gained through this collaborative approach. Library representatives can and should be directly involved in community, regional, and state telecommunications initiatives.

Sidwell's statement makes reference to rural Nebraska, and that is a critical point. Providing broadband telecommunications services in rural areas is expensive, but it must be accomplished to allow all areas of Nebraska the chance to grow and prosper. Being competitive and having the ability to participate in the information economy requires having broadband services available. While digital switches and fiber optic lines are in place throughout Nebraska, the local loop (the connection between the local telephone company or other service provider and the home or business) is still lacking for many.

Across Nebraska, there are many good examples of communities addressing their technology needs. Such efforts offer examples for other communities. There are also good examples of library representatives contributing to community information technology efforts. These libraries are represented in community technology planning committees, promote library technology needs, inform the community of library resources, create collaborative partnerships, and keep current library technology plans within the scope of overall community technology planning.

Those interested in joining the Technologies Across Nebraska Partnership or those interested in contributing information about a community information technology initiative can contact the Partnership, 402-472-3967, e-mail: <LTEMPEL1@unl.edu>, or see their Web site at <technologiesacrossnebraska.unl.edu>.

Cooperative Reference Pioneers

The Library of Congress and OCLC (Online Computer Library Center, Inc.) are collaborating to provide quality, authoritative reference service by professional reference librarians twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year. The Collaborative Digital Reference Service (CDRS) is a pioneering new service that will provide professional reference service—anywhere, anytime—through an international, digital network of libraries and related institutions. Librarians will assist their customers by connecting to the CDRS to send questions that are best answered by the expert staff and collections of CDRS institutions from around the world. A large searchable archive of previous questions and answers will also be available to CDRS users.

More than eighty institutions are currently participating in the project, including the Nebraska Library Commission, Yale University, Cleveland Public Library, the National Gallery of Art, and the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. Membership in the CDRS is open to libraries, including public, academic, special, research, government, and corporate; cultural institutions, such as archives, art galleries, museums, and historical societies; and "Ask-a" services providing information based on professional information specialists such as scientists and librarians. For more information on how your library can become a founding member in this exciting project, see <www.oclc.org/services/reference/cdrs.shtml> or <www.loc.gov/cdrs>.

Accreditation Applications Distributed

On July 16, the Library Commission distributed applications for the Public Library Accreditation program to all public libraries scheduled to renew their accreditation, and to unaccredited libraries. These applications are due at the Library Commission by September 1. Certificates of Accreditation will be mailed on October 1 to all libraries that meet the necessary requirements. To be accredited, public libraries must meet the twenty Basic Guidelines for service (see <www.nlc.state.ne.us/libdev/revguid.html>), meet the maintenance of effort requirement, and have submitted a Public Library Statistical Report FY1999/2000. The Basic Guidelines define a minimum level of public library service for Nebraska citizens. Accredited libraries are eligible for direct state aid to public libraries and other grant programs through the Nebraska Library Commission. The Advanced Guidelines offer a challenge for developing and improving library services beyond this basic level. Libraries must meet sixteen of the Advanced Guidelines to be awarded Advanced Guidelines status. For more information contact Kit Keller, Library Data Services Coordinator, 402-471-3216, 800-307-2665, e-mail: <kkeller@nlc.state.ne.us>, or see the Commission home page, <www.nlc.state.ne.us>, search on Accreditation. ▲

Commission Contracts for Statistical Tools

The Library Commission recently negotiated an agreement to use Bibliostat™ Collect and Bibliostat™ Connect for public library statistics. Bibliostat™ Collect is an Internet-enabled software application that automates the existing annual state public library survey process. It helps local libraries perform timely, complete, and accurate data submission. Federal data elements, definitions, and edit check parameters are incorporated into Nebraska's Web-based survey. Bibliostat™ Connect is a Web-based tool that makes it easy to find compelling statistics and present them effectively in charts and graphs. The Library Commission recently convened a focus group of Nebraska librarians, who met to discuss the issues involved in the use of these products.

The group had suggestions about definitions of both existing and new data elements, as well as recommendations about how workshops might be structured for the introduction of these products. It was suggested that an Advisory Group for Statistical Issues be established to review some of these topics on a regular basis, and provide statewide input on issues that impact all public libraries. For additional information contact Kit Keller, Library Data Services Coordinator, (see above) or see the Commission Web site, <www.nlc.state.ne.us>, search on Bibliostat. ▲

Statewide Databases Renewed for FY 2001/2002

The Nebraska Library Commission recently renewed all the databases the Commission subscribed to on a statewide basis during FY 2000/2001. The subscription period for these databases begins July 1, 2001 and ends June 30, 2002. These databases include:

- ▲ FirstSearch (Includes access to the following: ArticleFirst, GPO Monthly Catalog, OCLC Union List of Periodicals, ContentsFirst, PapersFirst, Electronic Collections Online, MEDLINE, ProceedingsFirst, ERIC, NetFirst, WorldCat, and The World Almanac.)
- ▲ Electric Library (Due to limited funding, this contract is limited to public and post-secondary libraries.)
- ▲ Kiplinger Business Forecasts
Access will automatically continue throughout the new subscription term for libraries already signed up for these databases. No action is needed to maintain this access. Libraries not signed up for one or more of these databases can register by filling out and submitting the online form located at <www.nlc.state.ne.us/netserv/dbreg.html>. In addition to renewing statewide subscriptions, the Commission has also arranged for discounted pricing on additional databases on behalf of Nebraska libraries. The following databases can still be ordered: AccessScience, American National Biography, Britannica Online, CIS/Lexis-Nexis (multiple products), Columbia Granger's World of Poetry, CQ Press (CQ Researcher, CQ Weekly, and Electronic Encyclopedia of American Government), Encyclopedia of Astronomy and Astrophysics, Encyclopedia of Life Sciences, Grolier (multiple products), Grove Dictionary of Art Online, Oxford English Dictionary, Project MUSE, and SIRS. ## Cherie Longmuir Coordinates Talking Book Circulation

Cherie Longmuir is the new Coordinator of Book Circulation for the Talking Book and Braille Service. Cherie describes her primary responsibility as ensuring that all the books get checked out and checked in and sent to where they are supposed to be. With an average daily circulation of five hundred items for approximately five thousand users, this is no small task.

Cheri is a native of North Dakota and a graduate of Bismarck High School. She received a Bachelor's Degree in English from the University of Northern Colorado and a Master of Science Degree in Educational Media from Western Oregon State. She has lived in Australia, Guam, Oregon, Arizona, and Nevada. After her residence in Las Vegas, she describes Lincoln as a green paradise with friendly people. She and her husband have a five-acre residence near Clatonia and very much enjoy working in the yard and garden, planting flowers, listening to the birds, and being outdoors. ▲

Jan Anderson Advises Customers

Jan Anderson, a Readers' Advisor for the Talking Book and Braille Service whose voice is well known to many borrowers, has worked at the Nebraska Library Commission since 1988.

When she first began working at the Nebraska Library Commission, her time was divided between Technical Services and Administration. A year later she began working with the Talking Book and Braille Service.

Born in Lincoln, Jan moved with her family to Iowa at age four. After graduating from high school in Eagle Grove, IA, Jan returned to Lincoln to attend Lincoln School of Commerce. She has more than fifteen years of experience working in schools—in California, Arizona, and at Lincoln High School.

During her breaks, Jan always has a book in her hand. Her favorite authors are Fern Michaels, Sandra Brown, LaVyrle Spencer, and Danielle Steele. She and her husband have been married for forty-one years. They have one daughter and two grandchildren. ▲

Shannon White Directs Network Services

Shannon White was recently hired as Director of Network Services. She describes her responsibilities as coordinating Network Services staff, NEBASE activities, and statewide database licensing negotiation. After graduating from Ramsay High School in Birmingham, AL, she completed her Bachelor's degree in Mass Communication and History at Auburn University and earned a Master of Arts degree in Applied History and a Master of Library Science degree from the University of South Carolina. She is a native of Georgia and has lived in Augusta, GA; Pittsburgh, PA; Birmingham, AL; Auburn, AL; Columbia, SC; and Livingston, AL.

As a little girl, Shannon remembers going to the library in Augusta, which was located in a historic home near what was then Augusta College. She worked in her high school library and in the bindery department as an undergraduate and in the Architecture Library at Auburn.

Shannon became interested in librarianship by way of her interest in archives. She began her career in archives at The University of West Alabama. Prior to moving to Nebraska she held the position of Assistant Director at the Tutwiler Library. Shannon and her fiancé (whose family is located in Axtell) have a dog named Dharma and a cat named Kitty. She enjoys gardening, camping, and reading regional fiction and nonfiction. Her favorite author these days is Bill Bryson and her favorite magazine is Southern Living. Shannon says that, so far, the best thing about living in Lincoln is the lack of freeways running through town. ▲

Jennifer Wrampe Assists with Documents

Jennifer Wrampe recently joined the staff as a Documents Staff Assistant. Her responsibilities include checking in Federal Government Documents and adding them to the online system, as well as assisting with Nebraska State Documents. In addition, Jennifer's voice may be heard when you call the Library Commission, as she spends two hours a day working in the second floor reception/switchboard area. Between answering calls, she assists with a variety of administrative and communications projects.

Jennifer is originally from Auburn and remembers visiting her local public and high school libraries. Jennifer holds a diploma in Tour and Travel from the Lincoln School of Commerce and recently moved back to Nebraska after living in California for one year. She prefers Nebraska living for proximity to her family and seasonal changes. She enjoys reading mysteries and romances, particularly those of Nora Roberts. Together with her husband, she enjoys camping and spending time with her family and friends. She is expecting their first baby at the end of January. ▲

NEBASE Annual Meeting Celebrates Anniversary

The NEBASE 25th anniversary celebration will be held September 20. NEBASE was established by the Nebraska Library Commission in 1976 to facilitate access to OCLC services for libraries throughout Nebraska. Started with nine member libraries plus the Library Commission, NEBASE (Nebraska's regional network for OCLC [Online Computer Library Center]) has grown to include 146 libraries of all types and sizes.

Help NEBASE celebrate this milestone by participating in the festivities at the NEBASE Annual Meeting at The Cornhusker hotel in Lincoln on September 20. Speakers from NEBASE and OCLC will update participants with presentations and discussions concerning computer-supported library services. And, of course, birthday cake will be served. To register contact Jeannette Powell at 402-471-7740, 800-307-2665, e-mail: <jpowell@nlc.state.ne.us>. ▲ problem of the under-served library patron. The Commission collaborated with a variety of organizations during this decade, including The State Agriculture Extension Service; the State Home Economics Association; Home Extension Clubs; the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs; the American Legion Auxiliary; the Associated Women of Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation; and teacher and parent-teacher organizations. The decade ended with Johnson's resignation. In a 1981 letter, she spoke of her Commission connection, "What great times to remember!" ▲

Special Report... Census Information Sources for Librarians

The Census redistricting data summary file (PL-171), containing detailed population and race information down to the block level, was released in March. General age-group, housing, and family characteristics down to the place level was released in late May and can be found in the Demographic Profiles for each state. Eventually, the Census Bureau will release some printed volumes and CD-ROMs, but the Internet is the first place information is made available. Librarians can use census data to help determine library collection, program, and space needs. This data can help find the answers to the following questions: Does our community have a growing Hispanic or Vietnamese population? Increasing numbers of citizens over age sixty-five who may need large-print books and audiotapes? People living in group quarters? Single-parent households? This information can also be used to substantiate the library budget request. Below are some suggested Web sites for digging Nebraska data out of the treasure trove:
